Word Play

The colored animal is the lesson most recently completed. The gray animal is the one they are working on.

I think it makes the most sense to assign an animal to each lesson and automatically reward the animal when the student "masters" the lesson - rather than allowing the parent to award an animal whenever they want.

The colored animals are the keychains that the child earns for completing a section. They will just be displayed here - never grayed out or anything.

Phonological Awareness

Script: I am going to ask you some questions. Roll the dice in the sidebar to see which question I'll ask first.

1 Count the words in the sentence...

2 What is the first sound you hear in....

3 What rhymes with pat?

4 Do these words rhyme?...

5 How many syllables are in the word...

6 Listen carefully...

Intro

Script: Today we are learning words that end with /at/. Let's read the words together.
